Next 28th of April Construction Products Europe will host an event on Standardisation of construction products. Almost two years after the entry into force of the Regulation, a great number of CEN Technical Committees are developing or have already published their revised hEN. However, some of the rules remain unclear. Through this event, Construction Products Europe will bring together standardisation experts to collect their ideas on how to best deal with existing challenges and ways in which this important system could be improved.
