

Cédric de Meeûs Vice-President

Today, our General Assembly elected Mr Cédric de Meeûs, Vice-President Group Public Affairs and Government Relations at LafargeHolcim, to the post of Vice-President.

Our President, Dr Heimo Scheuch, CEO of Wienerberger AG, thanked Mr de Meeûs for the two years he has already served as internal auditor and the continued engagement in the association on behalf of our industry.

Mr de Meeûs is an Environmental Engineer with over 20 years of experience in senior positions in the environmental management, infrastructure, waste and construction materials industries. He specialises in the integration of political and regulatory intelligence in the business decision-making process. He works across a wide range of topics, focusing on energy and climate, circular economy and resources, sustainable construction and the sustainable development agenda. Currently Mr de Meeûs is responsible for LafargeHolcim's public affairs and governmental relation function. In this capacity he supports the Group's management teams and their operations in effectively tackling and integrating the regulatory agenda across all relevant regions. He plays a prominent role to convey a leading international voice and positioning the Group on relevant external forums while dealing with public policy issues in Brussels. Prior to his current role Mr de Meeûs was responsible for Holcim's European Government Relations. Prior to that, he was Deputy Representative to the EU Institutions for Veolia Environment, the world leader in environmental services. Mr de Meeûs is graduate from Imperial College, London.

Dr Scheuch and Mr de Meeûs will work together over the next twelve months before Dr Scheuch hands over the presidency in June 2019 after two consecutive mandates at the head of our association.
